LEGISLATIVE TESTIMONY

To: Joint Committee on the Judiciary

From: James F. Driscoll, Esq., Executive Director

Re: House Bill 936, “An Act relative to a woman’s right to know.”

Date: September 12, 2017

The Massachusetts Catholic Conference (“MCC”) respectfully submits this testimony in support of House Bill 936, “An Act relative to a woman’s right to know.”

House Bill 936 requires the Department of Public Health (DPH) to make available a pamphlet, web page, and telephone message describing a woman’s rights under the Massachusetts Patients’ Rights Act, detailing the risks of abortion, listing agencies providing abortion alternatives and prenatal care, and supplying scientifically accurate descriptions of fetal development. Abortion providers would be required to inform women and young girls before the procedure that such materials are available and give the materials to those who request them. Abortion facilities would be required to provide women and young girls 24 hours to reflect before going through with the abortion. These requirements would not apply in medical emergencies.

House Bill 936 would further require that access to ultrasound imaging of the unborn child and electronic audio recording of the unborn child’s heartbeat be offered to the pregnant woman. As of the end of 2012, informed consent laws similar to House Bill 936 have been put into effect in approximately thirty-two (32) states. Twenty-five of those states require informed consent with a one-day reflection period, while seven states require informed consent with no reflection period.<sup>1</sup> House Bill 936 provides the Commonwealth an opportunity to join other states in the country in this effort to support the inherent dignity of all women and young girls.

House Bill 936 would improve current policy regarding informed consent, and move our laws closer to providing equal protection for all women and their children. It would reinforce every woman's right to know the complete facts about an invasive medical procedure prior to its execution on her body.

Additionally, the bill would ensure that all clients have access to professionals that can offer a second or third opinion prior to the procedure. For the foregoing reasons, the MCC urges the committee to give House Bill 936 a favorable report recommending passage.
